Dear Gottlieb:

At last I have gotten around to writing you. I have read over your letter of Oct. 11th very carefully. Now to begin at the begining, you know how I feel about the satchell thing. I really feel I should be given back the $50.00 that was taken out for the first game he played in.

About the difference owed to Chicago, that is alright, my figures make it $36.87.

About the rain guarantees. We made two trips and only asked for rain guarantee for one. I do feel we should be paid that.

About last years booking, if your figures show a different balance, send me your complete statement and let me compare it with mine.

About the Washington mixup, I can understand you taking the stand you do, on the other hand I feel that as we came to Washington, and were willing to play, and only failed to do so in an effort to uphold the rules of The League, in my mind there should not be any question. Maybe this will have to wait until we get together.

About the game played in Newark where The Stars did not get a guarantee, the same thing happened to The Eagles in Philly, and we played on a gamble. I am sure you recall, if we did not agree to take what was made you would have called the game off. The ruling went through this year to gamble with Dexter Park when the weather is threatening. If it is fair for one it should be for the other. No one is really able to gamble any more than the other.

This is where an intelligent honest fair Chairman would come in. I am sure we would both accept the decisions of such a man in situations of this kind. I hav had two letters from John L. Clark, and one from Nunn of The Courier. Every one has some plans for the baseball this year. Did you hear from either of them?

Very Truly Yours
